

-- The Daily Planet --

Florida Man Eats aligator

BREAKIG NEWS! A man was found cooking an aligator in his backyard, his neighbors discovered a strange noise and were very concerned to find that he was cooking an aligator. Authorities were contacted and the man is currently facing criminal charges.

“it was crazy man, that guy just picked it up off his lawn and put it on his barbecue” -Neighbor

Millionaire Builds His 67th Lighthouse in Wisconsin

In other news, Rafi Tusk from Wisconsin has just finished construction of his 67th lighthouse, and can't stop talking about his plan to connect them all to the internet to make syncronized light shows visible from space, though some think he just wants to keep everyone awake at night. He constructed this new one right on top of the recently restored Ganary in Sturgeon Bay, Wisconsin.

“I WILL USE MY SPACE LIGHTS TO CONTACT MARS!!” -Tusk

Cereal Zombie Outbreak Spreads to Illinois, Moving Fast.

Since the beginning of the Cereal Zombie virus, millions of people have been infected with a mostly harmless disease that causes people to get very hungry for cereal in the mornings. The strange part is that they are only like this on Mondays. Many doctors have claimed to have a cure, but none have provided evidence for it yet. Most of the infected have grown to deal with this mostly minor inconvenience.

“BRAN!!” - a Cereal Zombie